

Mr Frederick Good

Mr Frederick Good is the Associate of Herbert Smith Freehills. He is a specialist in Hong Kong, EU and UK competition law, with experience in both private practice and enforcement. In addition to his experience in private practice, Frederick has significant regulatory experience in Hong Kong.

He was previously a case manager at the Hong Kong Competition Commission where he investigated a range of conduct including cartels and abuse of dominance cases. Frederick's practice encompasses competition law investigations (including dawn raids), merger control, general competition advisory and compliance. Prior to moving to Hong Kong he practiced at an international law firm based in London. He is qualified in England and Wales, and Hong Kong.
